

the mps way

From the moment you contact us, you can choose to hand over an entire project or pick the services you need. The crucial difference in the MPS approach is our strong, person-to-person account management – the reason that we have such high levels of client retention.

We will work with you to create the most effective project possible while prioritising your objectives, needs, brand values and profit margins.

We have an impressive breadth of clients from large private sector financial services and small start-ups, to public sector, universities and local authorities. We also have an impressive depth of experience. Having worked in the print industry for 30 years, not only do we understand the processes and technologies available, we're also exceptionally good at grasping your business's needs and going the extra mile to achieve them.

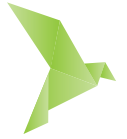

The most cost-effective solution isn't always the cheapest. We are a highly motivated, personal business, with an innovative, tailored approach and industry expertise. At MPS, we know the print industry and when you are looking for solutions, we probably already have the answers. This means that your project will deliver on quality and efficiency, saving you resources, time and costs.
